

The manual:Integrated Urban Governance - The way forwardAim of the manual

- to motivate cities to improve their governance approaches (main point of emphasis: social and spatial governance approaches)
- to provide support and inspiration, to liberate ideas (not a recipe book)

Content - overview

1. Executive Summary
2. Introduction: Purpose, target and structure of the manual
3. Why Integrated Urban Governance
4. The urban practice - examples from Metropolis Member Cities
5. Enabling Integrated Urban Governance - Setting up a political and administrative framework for policy integration
6. Organising integrated projects: Tools and instruments
7. Transferring good practice - To what extent can policies and projects be transferred?

The manual:Integrated Urban Governance - The way forwardChapter 33. Why Integrated Urban Governance

- 3.1 The rationale: New urban challenges in a globalising world
- 3.2 The approach - What is Integrated Urban Governance?
- 3.3 The view of international organisations
- 3.4 Benefits and costs of Integrated Urban Governance - an overview

The manual:
Integrated Urban Governance - The way forward

Chapter 5:

- 5. Enabling Integrated Urban Governance - Setting up a political and administrative framework for policy integration
- 5.1 Setting the political framework
 - 5.1.1 Driving forces for Integrated Urban Governance
 - 5.1.2 Enabling integrated approaches: organisational and structural changes
 - 5.1.3 Enabling integrated approaches: Capacity building and awareness raising
- 5.2 The role of the public and stakeholder groups
 - 5.2.1 Involving the public and other stakeholders of the civil society
 - 5.2.2 Involving the business sector
 - 5.2.3 Political and administrative decision makers: the role of leadership
- 5.3 Overcoming barriers

The manual:
Integrated Urban Governance - The way forward

Chapter 6:

- 6. Organising integrated projects: Tools and instruments
- 6.1 The task: Vertical and horizontal integration. Who and what is important?
- 6.2 Involving the public
 - 6.2.1 Public Information
 - 6.2.2 Public participation in decision making
 - 6.2.3 Public participation in implementing projects
 - 6.2.4 Conditions for success
- 6.3 Political and organisational arrangements and instruments
 - 6.3.2 Administrative tools and instruments
 - 6.3.3 Fiscal tools and instruments
 - 6.3.4 Benchmarking and monitoring
- 6.4 Capacity building and awareness raising

The manual:
Integrated Urban Governance - The way forward

Chapter 7:

7. Transferring good practice - To what extent can policies and projects be transferred?

Hella Dunger-Löper

Permanent Secretary for Building and Housing
Senate Department for Urban Development

It is a pleasure to be with you